Short Course #3: Mining 101, Industry Overview
Instructor: Bob Loeffler, Visiting Professor, UAA Institute of Social and Economic Research
8:00am – 5:00pm Tuesday, November 8, 2011
Cost: $150 Fee includes lunch
Location: Sheraton Anchorage Hotel
Register at: http://www.alaskaminers.org/index.html

Mining 101, Industry Overview

Property Rights, Environment, Permitting, Economics & Issues

A one-day intensive short-course is being taught at the Alaska Miners Association Convention on November 8\(^{\text{th}}\), 2011. The course will provide an overview of the mining industry, especially as it exists in Alaska. It will include an overview of the exploration and development process, significant environmental issues, the permitting process, economics, and public issues. The course is designed for those who wish to understand the industry as a whole: bankers, government, community members, and those who work in a specific part of the industry and wish to gain an understanding of the remainder. The day-long intensive class will start with the mining property rights, and work through the exploration and development process, environmental issues that influence mine design, and final mine closure after mining is completed. It will describe permitting, economics, and the public issues that surround mining.